Medical Gaslighting:
the ethical considerations and impact of testimonial injustice in healthcare delivery
by Sue Cook
MS, L.Ac., MSW Candidate

Sue Cook (she/they) has been a licensed acupuncturist since 2013 and teaches an introductory clinical counseling skills class at Pacific College of Health and Science. They became interested in medical gaslighting through their work in chronic pain and illness management and through their own personal experiences living with Ehlers Danlos syndrome. Sue's primary areas of interest are disability justice, healthcare ethics, and cultural appropriation in third-wave behavioral health interventions.
