Biographical Sketch

Born in St. Louis, Missouri, on July 31, 1917, George Drury grew up in Chicago where he attended St. Mel's School, Quigley Seminary and St. Mary of the Lake, where he received his B.A. in philosophy. In 1948 Drury received his M.A. in Philosophy from Loyola University Chicago, followed in 1958 by a Ph.D. in philosophy from the University of Chicago.

In 1942 Bishop Bernard J. Sheil asked Drury to head an educational program designed to explore social and political problems in the light of modern religious, democratic, and ethical principles. This resulted in the Sheil School of Social Studies opening in 1943, and which Drury was the director of until 1946 when he went to Loyola University Chicago to pursue an M.A. in Philosophy and joined the philosophy faculty as an instructor. From 1959 to 1966 Drury was an Associate Professor of Social Science and Humanities at Monteith College, later Wayne State University. From 1971 until his retirement in 1987, Drury taught at Empire State College in New York.

In 1948 Drury married his wife Finvola, a poet, and they had two children – Finvola, a noted AIDS scientist and health worker who died in 1991, and George. George F. Drury passed away May 16, 2010, at the age of 92. Finvola Drury passed away January 19, 2015.
